October 8 to October 11, repeating October 22 to October 25: Emma Goldman (1869-1940) "Anarchism and Other Essays" (<https://librivox.org/author/3133>). Emma Goldman was an anarchist known for her political activism, writing, and speeches. Goldman was imprisoned several times for illegally distributing information about birth control. She founded the anarchist journal "Mother Earth." This present reading contains essays on women's rights. The issues she spoke about are current in our political environment of today, wherein current conflicts involve the removal of women's rights which were fought for by Goldman and other women up to the present day.

October 11 (8:00 pm) to October 16, repeating October 26 to October 30: Thomas Paine (1737-1809) "The Age of Reason" (<https://librivox.org/author/2273>). Paine challenges institutionalized religion and the legitimacy of the Bible as divine revelation being a replacement for reason, though he did argue for a Deistic religion and a Creator of Reason. He was widely read by the educated elite. He was imprisoned for his viewpoints. The publisher of his writings, Richard Carlile, was also imprisoned for "blasphemy and seditious libel" for releasing these viewpoints. Prosecutions continued for 30 years for any publisher or bookseller who dared to release Paine's writings. The imprisonment of opposition and suppression of any writings against religious conservatives is an issue which is arising again in our current political environment.

October 17 to October 20, repeating October 31 to November 3: Jack London (1876-1916) "The Iron Heel" (<https://librivox.org/author/143>). This is a dystopian novel about the terrible oppressions of an American oligarchy at the beginning of the Twentieth Century, and the struggles of a socialist revolutionary movement. The issues presented in this novel are relevant to our current political struggles.

October 20, and repeating November 3, following the conclusion of "The Iron Heel", we air the reading of "The Emancipation Proclamation" by Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865), (<https://librivox.org/author/2233>). This Proclamation was signed by President Lincoln on January 1, 1863. This reading is important in realizing that political parties change their objectives over time, as history shows that it was the Democrats who opposed the abolition of freed slaves.

October 21, and repeating November 4: written by Harold Laski (1893-1950), "Karl Marx: An Essay" summarizes the major views of Marx as it pertains to democratic socialism. (<https://librivox.org/author/10843>).

9:45 p.m. Sign-off:

We are still in testing stage. If you find that a particular show has been replaced with classical music, this indicates that KCPK has encountered a broadcasting problem. Typically, the problem is resolved by the next hour. We appreciate your comments about problems.

KCPK is an affiliate of Pacifica Radio Network. KCPK airs programs from all over the U.S. which are produced by affiliates. KCPK plans to offer local programming to the Pacifica Radio network, by uploading locally produced shows and giving our community producers the opportunity to broadcast nationally as well as locally. We conclude our sign-on and sign-off with our theme song written for our area's historical documentary, "The Coming of Asphalt as told through Rural Storytelling Performance Art. You can view this video at our website under menu tab “Cal Humanities Video.” The theme song is entitled “The Road to Take Us Home” and is written and performed by Lily Landers, Kevin Davis, and Murphy Cross. Any programming you may have heard prior to KCPK’s Sign-on or after our Sign-off was coming from a large FM station from Bakersfield at FM 107.1 which over-powers our frequency 106.9 when we are off the air.
